[1] IISEE-UNESCO Lecture Notes Archive is being expanded.

IISEE has increased the number of the lectures posted in the IISEE-UNESCO Lecture Notes Archive System in the IISEE website (<http://iisee.kenken.go.jp/lna/>). We have 26 lectures opened in this system and several lectures will be added in the near future. The following lecture notes have newly posted since we informed in the Newsletter No.38:

- Mathematics for Seismology I
- Data Processing
- Numerical Simulation of Seismic Wave Propagation
- Observatory Practice
- Earthquake Focal Mechanism
- Dynamic Soil Structure Interaction
- Earthquake Resistant Limit State Design I, II
- Design Earthquake Ground Motion and Seismic Force I II
- Structural Response Control
- Tsunami Source
- Tsunami Simulation
- Tsunami Force and Tsunami Resistant Structure.

Please introduce this system to your co-workers.

Bunichiro SHIBAZAKI
Chief Research Scientist, IISEE

[2] Ms. Natalia POIATA won the Outstanding Student Paper Award.

We received good news from Ms. Natalia POIATA (Romania, 2004-05S) that her presentation at the 2008 Fall Meeting of American Geophysical Union (AGU) won the Outstanding Student Paper Award. Congratulations! We wish her continued success in the future. Outstanding Student Paper Award winners will be announced in an upcoming publication of Eos and the weekly newspaper of AGU.

Award-wining paper:

[3] The news of ex-participants' death

The sad news of ex-participants' death that we received is as follows.

Mr. F.X. Marwoko (Indonesia, 1976-77S) passed away in 2008

Mr. SOEKARMAN B (Indonesia, 1976-77S) passed away in 2008

Mr. Oswald Maida (Malawi, 1993-94S) passed away a few years ago.

We pray sincerely for the repose of their souls. Also we are really grateful to the ex-participants who gave us information above.
